GYNECOLOGIC ONCOLOGY

The Gynecologic Oncology Multidisciplinary Team (MDT) at the Karmanos Cancer Institute is committed to providing outstanding and innovative care for patients with cervical, fallopian tube, ovarian, uterine (endometrial), vaginal and vulvar cancer, as well as gestational trophoblastic disease. Our team collaborates with referring physicians to quickly and accurately confirm a cancer diagnosis and identify the type and severity of the disease.

- Gynecologic cancer diagnosis needing surgery, radiation, and/or chemotherapy
- Symptoms suspicious for a gynecologic malignancy such as a complex pelvic mass, malignant ascites, and/or elevated CA-125
- Vulvar, vaginal, or cervical lesions suspicious for malignancy on pelvic exam
- Early cervical cancer interested in fertility-sparing surgery
- Pelvic masses and endometrial cancer
- Complicated pre-invasive disease of the lower genital tract
- A personal and/or family history suggestive of hereditary gynecologic cancer
- Patients interested in clinical trials

HPV Vaccine

According to the CDC, every year in the United States, 36,500 people (including women and men) are estimated to be diagnosed with a cancer caused by HPV infection. Although cervical cancer is the most well-known of the cancers caused by HPV, there are other types of cancer caused by HPV. HPV vaccination could prevent more than 90% of cancers caused by HPV from ever developing, which is an estimated 33,700 cases in the United States every year.

- Vaccination can begin at age 9
- Two-dose schedule for ages 9-14
- Three-dose schedule for ages 15+
- Approximately 85% of people will get an HPV infection in their lifetime
- HPV vaccine is most effective when given before someone is exposed to HPV

PRENATAL TO POSTPARTUM SERVICES

McLAREN NOW OFFERING BIRTHING CLASSES

Expectant parents now have the unique opportunity to participate in McLaren Greater Lansing's labor support class, held at The Birthplace, our labor and delivery unit at the hospital. This one-day course is led by our experienced nurse educator, Allison Claeys, RN-C, C-EFM, and gives an exclusive perspective where patients learn more about the birthing process at McLaren along with receiving a tour of the facility to better prepare them for the big day.

The class includes a full range of preparation and techniques of laboring and post-labor care including:

- The labor process
- Hospital admission process, labor positioning, and comfort and pain control techniques
- Delivery and postpartum care

The class is currently being offered to those who will be delivering at McLaren Greater Lansing's Birthplace and are in their third trimester (after 32 weeks) and their partners. Your patients can register online at mclaren.org/lansingbirthclass.

HOW TO REGISTER:

OUTPATIENT LACTATION SERVICES

McLaren Greater Lansing's Birthplace offers a comprehensive inpatient and outpatient lactation service, led by Tammy Ashley, NP, IBCLC. Our lactation services help new moms and babies who require breastfeeding assistance. Tammy is here to assist any mom or baby who is struggling with latching, milk supply, or other breastfeeding complications.

Outpatient referred moms and babies will be seen in the Birthplace at scheduled appointment times. Once a referral is received, families can usually be seen in one to three days.

Most appointments are covered through insurance. Your patient would need to contact their insurance company for questions about coverage.
